Empower Boston's Students with Financial Literacy

The capacity for students to understand the basics of personal finance, budgeting, investing, credit, and other components of financial literacy is critical to their career success and ability to build wealth.

Boston Public Schools (BPS) educators and the business community are committed to supporting students with building financial literacy skills before they graduate high school.

The Greater Boston Chamber of Commerce Foundation and BPS are developing a shared vision for financial literacy coursework that incorporates experiential learning opportunities for students to connect with business and financial professionals. Working together, we aim to simplify the relationship-building process for corporate partners to engage with BPS, while providing educators and students with access to industry experts who can help connect classroom learning to real-world experience.

Please join us in this important work by helping to recruit professionals from your organization to volunteer their time to support financial literacy training for BPS students.
